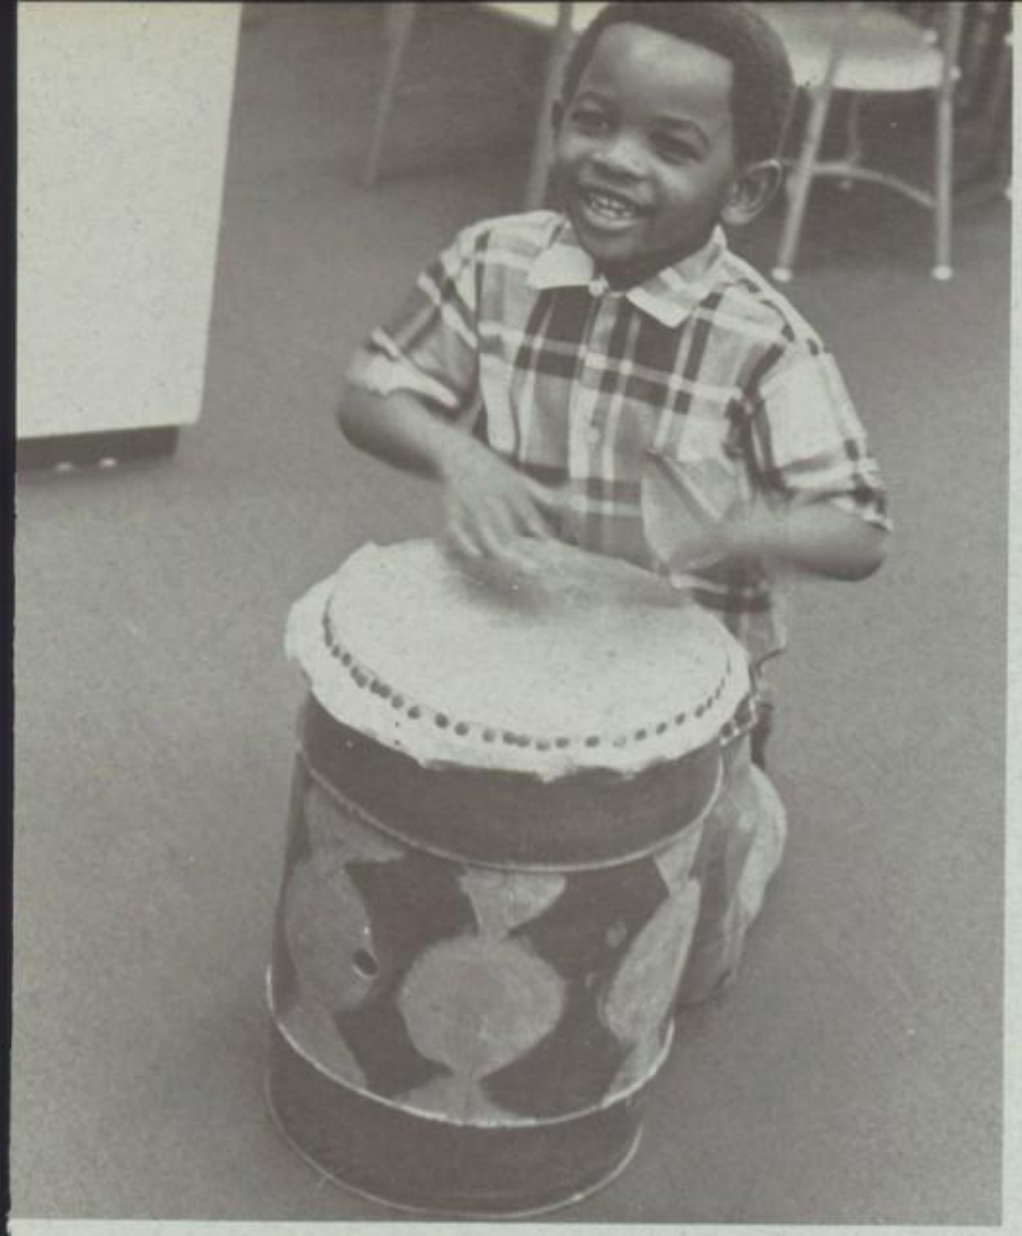
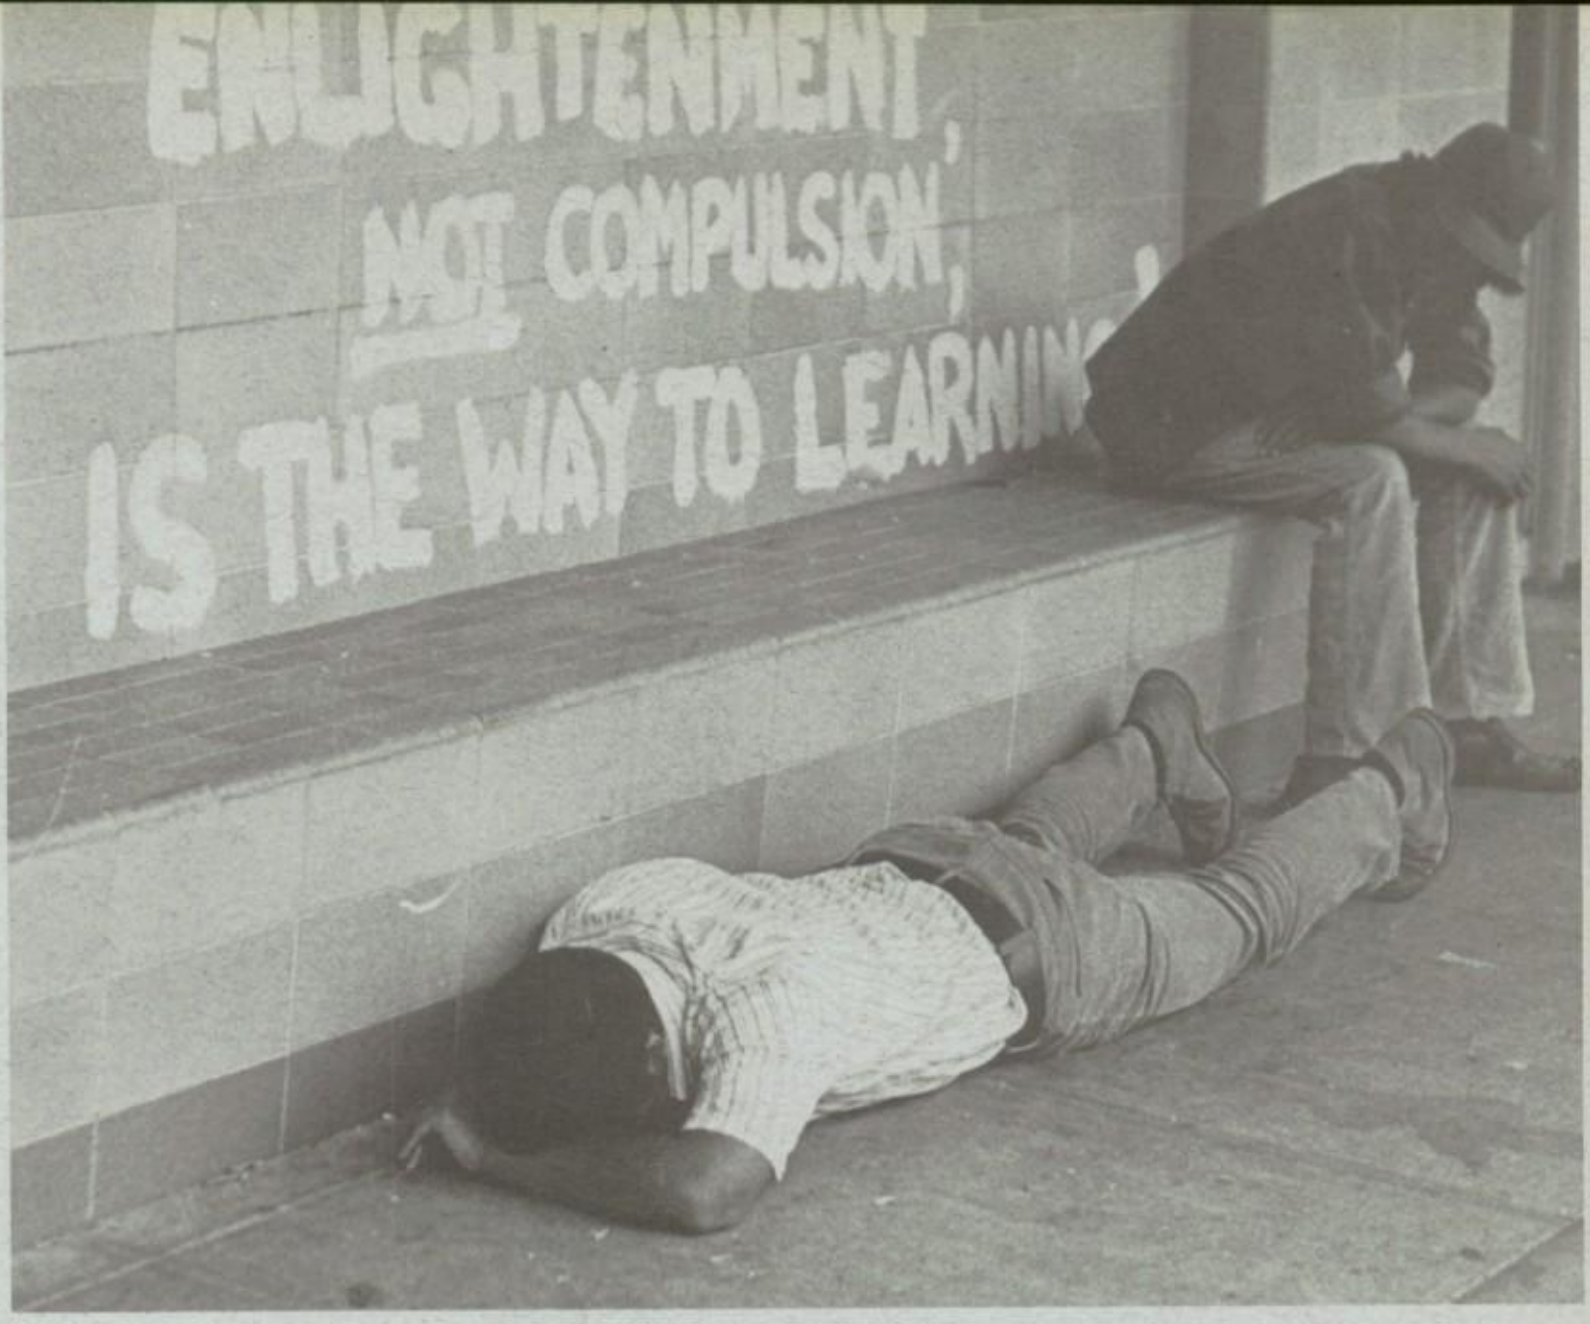
Long Beach Poly:
Involvement In Dynamics Of Change

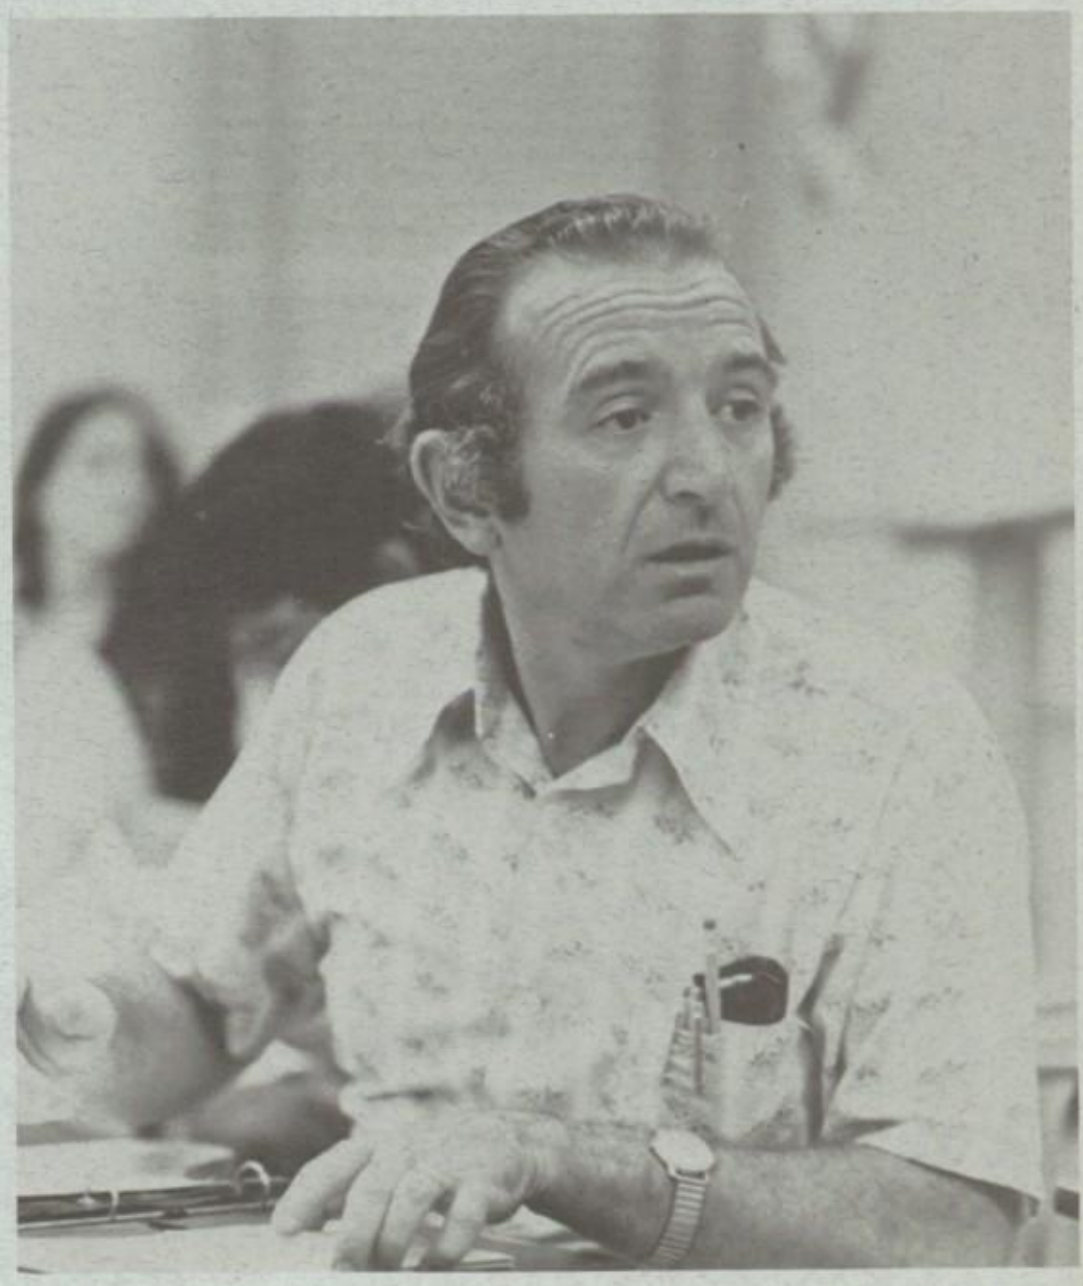
Redevelopment: Crossing Moat of 17th

The moats of 16th and 17th Streets must be crossed and Poly, along with the City of Long Beach, has this past year appropriated funds in order to redevelop an extensive portion of the community. Yet, perhaps the integral aspects of the problem lie unscathed. As of a few years ago, the communications problem between the transient population of Poly and the permanent residents of central Long Beach remained unresolved. This year, Poly Community Interracial Committee was continued as well as project tutor programs with Roosevelt Elementary School children. This inner-city school dilemma can be and was best dealt with within Poly, where the overlapping of all areas of Long Beach are to be most positively found.





ENLIGHTENMENT,
NOT COMPULSION,
IS THE WAY TO LEARNING



Education: Change And Challenge

The education game, previously under the jurisdiction of anonymous committees "upstairs", has flexed under the pressure of the ever-fashionable STUDENT BODY DEMANDS. It is not so much a mutiny, but instead, a compromise between students and the administration. The administration has realized that the alternatives available to students today have the potential to be as valuable as former methods of teaching. This rather precarious consciousness has resulted in bi-lingual studies, ethnic studies courses which prepare for immediate careers and a School of Educational Alternatives.

But are these actually solutions to the educational problem? Are students sliding into these roles just as they would to any other system of learning? It is true that students now have greater freedom and time during class in which to intensify their talents but where does the line of guidance begin and end? The situation in its entirety can be visualized somewhere in the future and there lies the full view of the consequences of today's change.

Sports:
Anguish, Pain, Money

O, the anguish, the pain! The unabashed ecstasy and disappointment susceptible to every move of the team. So, why has the student participation in these events dropped?

$20,885 was appropriated from this past year's student body fund to promote the various athletic teams throughout the year. The income was $24,020.

Apparently, other activities rechanneled students from sports to social, cultural, musical, and artistic obligations, keeping them from a great many sports events. Where before, Poly's barometer of student spirit and apathy was measured by the attendance at basketball and football games, can now be observed by the enthusiasm of smaller, individual interest groups. 1973 sports was only one of the interests of Poly's many faceted student body. And, as one prophet once wrote: Football is only a game!

GAME

Experience Of Mini-Society

Significantly, Poly resembles a junior society. The campus includes all levels of social stature as well as all the diversities in population as represented in Long Beach. The omnicient cliches and clubs are no more strangers to this campus than are math and English classes. However, the social divisions within Poly have made quite a remarkable shift within the past year. Coinciding with the new attitudes towards the changes in the curriculum and administration, students have engendered among themselves a more positive attitude towards education as the alternatives to learning were increased.

Still, the varying groups at Poly create the most unique of any high school situation and as our principal once said, "It sure does make one heck of a program."

But what if we were to live on campus? Doubtless we would like and hate the same people and food and classes and we would create status symbols and social goals. Yet, would this be any different from our parents' society even with our own music and dances and friends?

Could these be the fads we so despised?

Politics:
Students Wield Clout

Introducing the United States political system to Poly was the initiation of the 18 year old vote. Not presiding alone, the new adults witnessed the effect of their ballots as the campaign of '72 was under way. The election came to a startling climax as Richard Nixon regained his crown.

The residuals of the 60's became resolved as the cease fire in Viet Nam was declared, one day after the death of Lyndon B. Johnson, a man who had seen its full effect on the country.

The new political awareness was brought down to a smaller scale on the Poly campus as the return of the POW's involved a great percentage of the Polyites. They also welcomed Wilson Riles, Superintendent of Public Education, to lecture on campus.

CURRICULUM

Team Works 2nd Year

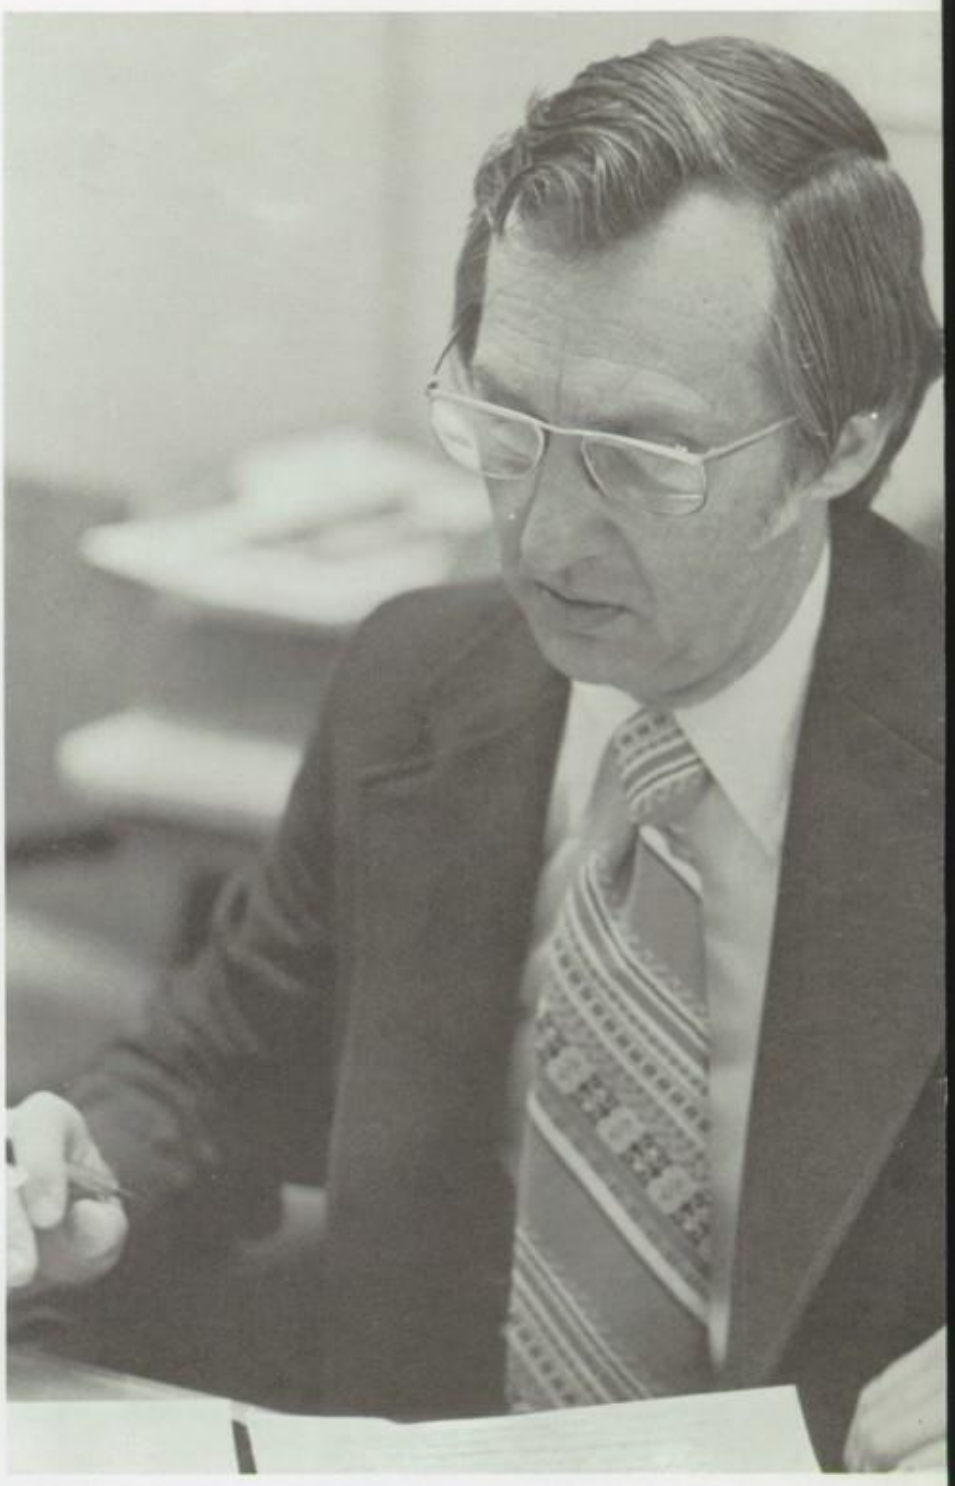
The new team system of counseling and leadership at Poly celebrated its second birthday this year. There were separate offices for sophomores, juniors, and seniors. When a student needed counseling, readmits, (or heaven forbid a lecture), he had only to report to his grade level office and his wishes would be granted (or his worst fears confirmed).

The members of Team 10 were Bill Jones and Mildred Parker, assistant principals, Don Greenfield and Shirley Wirls, counselors, William L. Brizendine, teacher aide, and Sylvia Balkamn, and Anne Murphy as clerks.

Team 11 consisted of Ed Nichols, assistant principal, Henry Lichenstein and Barbara Kemmer, counselors. Additional staff members were Pat Silvers and Doris McGrew, clerical staff.

The "happy gang" at Team 12 were Neil Bradley, assistant principal, Leon Forman and Glen Riley, as counselors, Vern Allen and Billie Hetlinger completed Team 12.

Top level administrators were vice principal Wendol Murray and assistant principal Wayne Piercey. Murray was administrator in charge of curriculum and budget and fulfilled other duties on campus. Wayne Piercey "the co-mayor of Lakewood" was in charge of maintenance and the "nuts and bolts" of the Poly operation.



Principal's Message

"Poly is a school of great tradition and heritage. Our seventy-five years have taught us much about the world and its people. Poly's almost fifty thousand graduates, spread all over the globe, are deeply involved with the problems of life and are in the thick of a new era, an age of change.

Change has become so much a part of our lives it is scarcely noticed. The influences and movement created by man's thrust for knowledge solves problems but redoubles interest and curiosity. The more we know, the more we want to know.

As George Romney has said, 'There is no virtue in what we call consistency as it is usually understood. Flexibility, the willingness to change with changing conditions is essential in this dynamic and progressive world.'

Education and our Poly curriculum must shift into the future tense. Humanities, Ethnic Studies, You and Your Money, Distributive Education, Mexican Art, Film Analysis, Masonry, School of Educational Alternatives, are words and courses unheard of five years ago. Poly is deeply involved in the change process. We are deeply involved in the change process. We are committed to intelligent and orderly innovation which will meet the evolving needs of our multi-ethnic, multi-cultural community."

Art Joins Allied Arts

The art department was active as a part of the Allied Arts program. The program was designed to give students a taste of the other arts as well as their chosen fields of endeavor. The art program set up many impressive displays in Hicks gallery, much to the enjoyment of the student body. There was an effort to involve the community as well as the students in the art program. Among the classes offered were: Crafts, Drawing and Painting, Ceramics, and General Art. The head of the department was Donald Swintek. Student members of the student advisory counsel were Maureen Lynch and Bill Wynne.

English Specializes in Orientation of Students

Individual counseling of students was one direction taken by English classes. The department, headed by Lucy Wadleigh (10th grade) and Elizabeth Loughran (11th and 12th grades), attempted to provide more information to the students in allowing them to realistically evaluate and select their course of studies in the future. Teachers realized this year that the process of flexible selectivity must be available in order to provide a course that is student oriented as well as initiated. This method results in a comfortable, more positive classroom atmosphere.

Additions to the department were Diane Guyette, Drama; Myrna Stuetz, Reading; Marilyn Dale, American Literature.

F. L. Works to Variable Credit

Foreign Language teachers were in the process of developing a new approach to this study during the spring semester. One of their goals was to implement a variable credit method of instruction. Along with the usual programs in Spanish, French, German and Latin, Foreign Languages also coordinated Art Alvarado's ESL course and Myrna Stuetz's Bilingual — Bicultural Studies (Spanish English).

The department was chaired by Marietta Williams. Sol Askenaze and Myrna Stuetz entered the department.

P. E. Builds Sound "Bods"

The P. E. program provides recreation for everyone, and, at the same time, students are taught basic skills and fundamentals of physical fitness. The boys participate in basketball, softball, football, swimming, volleyball, and track. For the girls there are basketball, volleyball, track, gymnastics, swimming, field hockey, modern dance and touchdown, a form of football.

Gordon Dooley headed boys' P. E. again this year. Coaches new to the Department were David Bates, Trenton Gaines, Richard Jones and Ken Mendonca. The girls' department, headed by Elaine Betz, boasted the addition of Linda Moore and Earline Ulrich.

New Concepts in Social

There has been a constant attempt to introduce new concepts and ideas into Social Studies. The department hoped to make the various subjects more interesting by use of guest speakers, student projects, and student involvement. Social Studies also emphasized student participation, instead of the tradition "lecture" method. Some of the ongoing courses in twelfth grade Social Studies were Asian Studies, Comparative World Religion, Anthropology, Current events, Behaviorial Sciences, Ethnic Studies (various groups). Twelfth grade Social Studies was chaired by Henry Legere. Bert Pipal was new to the department this year.

Eleventh grade Social, headed by Wayne Metsker, was mostly involved in teaching the required American history courses. In addition, these were offered: Introduction to the Study of History, American Leadership, Pluralistic Society, Conflict and Consensus, Causes of War and Peace Strategies, Prosperity and Depression. James Gaines joined the department this year.

Tenth grade Social Studies, General Education, consists of cluster of courses which enable sophomores to adjust better to modern society. These courses include Health, Consumer Education (You and Your Money), and Drivers Education. In 1972 and 1973 the department received valuable assistance from the Long Beach Drug Rehabilitation Center in regards to information on the dangers and tragedy of drug abuse. The department also stressed the family as an area of study. This department was headed by Warren Stephenson. Ken Mendonca was new to the department.

Math and Science Stress Practical Aspects Work

Both the Math and Science departments were very strong this past academic year. The Math Department, headed by Joe Kurey, placed emphasis on career oriented courses. The new classes were designed to run on a nine week basis and included such classes as Practical Measurements, Practical Statistics, Mathematics of Record Keeping and Computer Methods. Newcomers to the department were Alan Crocoll, Joe Gates, and Walter Schuster.

The Science Department stressed the use of practical means of lab techniques in solving problems. Scientific theory was featured as one of the most important ideas for future scientists. David Bates, Richard Jones and Joanne Hexom.

Child Care Implemented

Working hand in hand with Pre-Schoolers, Poly students, received practical experience in child development care. The course covered such areas as adoption, child abuse and psychology. Career Guidance Trains How to Get, Keep Jobs

The Career Guidance Center is a complete career information and counseling center designed to provide all students with information and counseling related to their career choice. If a student does not have a career interest, the center has information and audio-visual materials which can help him explore the world of careers for the first time. The center is also equipped to measure a student's career aptitude. Both of the full-time vocational counselors are licensed GATB technicians. (The GATB is the General Aptitude Test Battery used by the U.S. Department of Labor at all California sites.)

Other Features of the center are: information on over 900 different careers; over 1,000 different pamphlets dealing with careers provided by Business, Industrial, and Civic groups; Cassette tapes featuring minorities discussing their jobs i.e. getting the job; what education is needed, on-the-job training, salary; getting along with co-workers; cassette tapes and recorder for practicing job interviews; limited job placement; Vocational work experience program; General work experience program; Exploratory work experience education. The BTC coop-program.

A limited number of students selected for the Work-Study Program will work up to 7 hours a week and attend occupational training and regular classes during the day.

The NYC program under Everett Brewer also proceeded "full steam ahead."

Home Ec., Industrial Arts Join in Skills For Life

Home Economics and Industrial Arts again conducted courses that gave importance to practical situations in real life. The action in Home Economics was in Consumer Education. Many vocational programs were planned to prepare the student for meaningful employment in the future. Effective Living, which deals with development of individual concepts, communication and problem solving was implemented in the spring semester. One of the continuing courses was Child Development. This course places emphasis upon the physical and emotional growth of children. Other innovative courses developed in Home Economics were Catering, Tailoring, Candlemaking, Needle Point and Crocheting. The department head was Penny Levias in 1972 and 1973. Industrial Arts introduced variable credit into its curriculum. This department was directed again by Chester Hansen.

SEA Stresses Doing Your Very Own Thing

"It's a great experience." SEA School isn't just a school it's a place to experiment. Students in SEA School can go wherever, whenever . . . The idea is to learn by experience.

"It gives you a chance to learn." The students don't have to sit in desks and listen to the teacher talk. They can get up and leave class or sit on the floor and read.

"It's unstructured and flexible, you can change it according to need." SEA School doesn't command a constant classroom situation.

What is The School of Educational Alternatives? SEA School was designed to help students learn without the atmosphere of a school. Art, English, Communications Media, Ethnic Studies, Marine Ecology, Music, and Social Studies are the courses offered. These courses last for a semester and then change to another class of the students choice. Each class is two periods or two hours long.

Pepsters Keep The Faith, Revive Spirit

The spirit at Poly High School was revived! The people kept the faith, and everybody did his thing. The cheerleaders were in rare form. "Cornbread" Jenkins will be remembered . . . putting it all together with colorful language . . . especially at Blair.

The Polyettes and the winning football team bridged the gap between apathy to enthusiasm on campus. Roberta Jin and Candy Otsuki led the drill team. There were more and better halftime shows: "Mission Impossible," "Shaft," "Get It On," and the black-out show for homecoming.

Dianne Ishimine and Carolyn Hedley led Song and Flag. Under their direction, the girls implemented an impressive routine that included the use of flourescent poms and flags.

Audrey Hamilton, and Pat Cheeks, the majorettes, sported dark green outfits with gold sequins.

The football and basketball teams came, saw and conquered, inspired by the pepsters who provided the backbone of student body spirit.

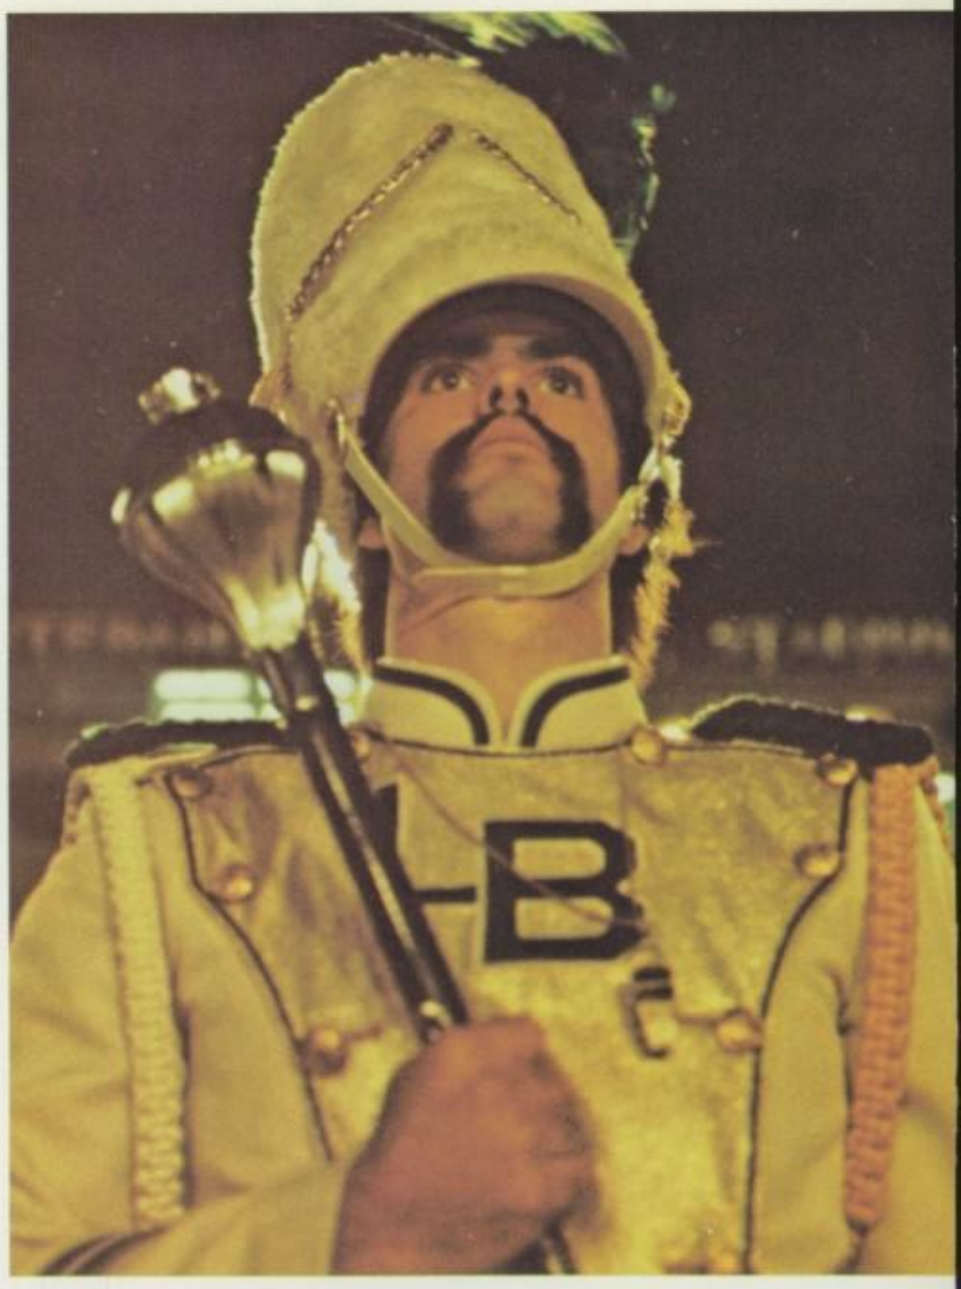
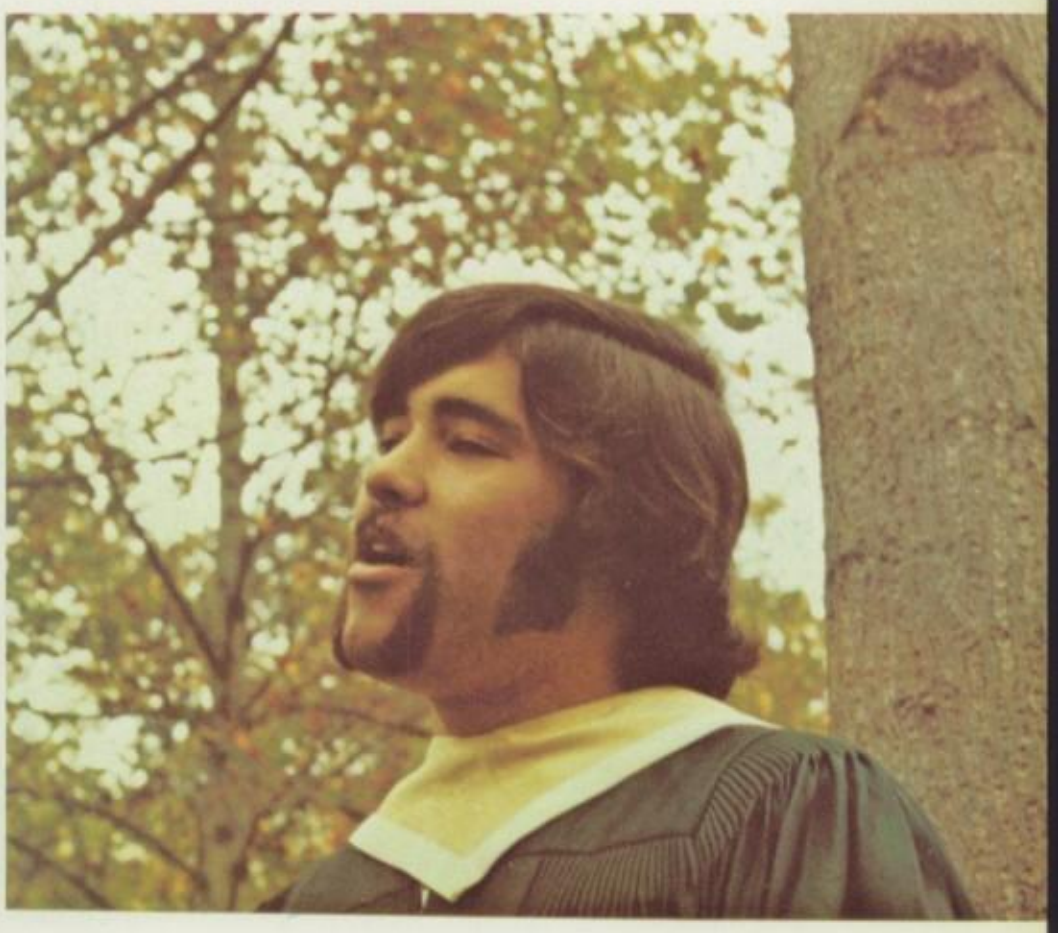
Arts Present Beauty In Music And Language

Depicting the esthetic aspects of Poly's many faceted student body, were those of the Allied Arts Department. These performing arts, so left unheralded in past years, rebounded with the creamy, precise movements of modern dance to the vibrant, spirit rendering sounds of the marching band. Making their debut in November, the orchestra produced the rich sounds of the baroque as the Chorale and Acapella added the dimensions of the madrigal. Drama and Forensics expanded the meaning of the word by uniting trauma and emotion of the stage to the exacting plane of logic from behind a podium. So it was that the '72-'73 year channeled that elusive element, "Soul," through the sieve of the arts.





Homecoming: Miles Of Smiles

Far in the distance the faint sound of drumbeats is heard. Oh no! this is impossible! Nobody can oversleep from Tuesday to Friday morning! This is homecoming week when the lovable, hale, and hearty rabbits return to Veteran's Stadium after the crusades to far and distant fields in search of football victory. The pep rally was just the beginning of a most successful homecoming week. On Wednesday there was a mock funeral with Kate Cutter and "Cornbread" Jenkins presiding. Many a crocodile tear was shed by the Polyettes, and R.O.T.C. was on hand to guard the casket from any desecration of the dead. Friday had many things in store to boost pep. There were grade level assemblies. But everybody's favorite activity was the homecoming fair, where clubs fattened their pocket books and the students fattened themselves with delectable goodies of every description. This year's theme was "Jonathan Buries Big Red" and it was a remarkable act of forecast. Poly was victorious after a losing streak too painful to enumerate. At halftime, a performance rivaling Cecil B. DeMille lwas put on by the Band, Song and Flag, and the Polyettes. The honor grads were also on hand to liven up the occasion.

The year's theme for modern dance program was "In Search of Movement." There were dance numbers sampling the music and dance of cultures throughout the world. Among the countries represented were Korea, Japan, and Hawaii, as well as the dance and music from our own country. This was represented by jazz and modern dance numbers. The advisor of Modern Dance was Muriel Talley.

Drama Features Plays Of Youth, Supernatural

Under the direction of Diane Guyette, drama was involved in various undertakings. During the fall months the group was involved in the usual minor productions in which the students produce and direct short drama pieces. One of the main productions of the fall was Infancy (featured in color in Performing Arts section of Caerulea). The main production of the winter was Blithe Spirit, by Noel Coward, the story of a man whose dead wife comes back to haunt him. In this production the cast of characters were Vera Holder as Edith, Lisa Shoultus as Elvira, Don Strait as Charles, Laurie Sanchez as Ruth, Dwayne Stamp as Doc Bradmen, Mary Welsh as Madame Arcati, and Leisa Washington as Mrs. Bradmen. Late in the spring, drama presented their major production, You, the Jury, a courtroom drama. In May Butterflies Are Free was presented.

The band marched and strode in many activities. It played at all of our football games including CIF. Poly's band performed on the Queen Mary, the Disneyland Parade, and the Naples Christmas Parade. It went to Palm Springs for a festival and, as always, played at Baccalaureate and Commencement.

The drum majors were Dave Smith and Ken Phifer. Members of the Advisory Board included Mike Hayashi, Karen Jenson, Doug Butler, Cindy Cuff, and Jim Bruner. Some of the outstanding musicians this year were Jim Earnhardt, Eddie Marshall, Dave Smith, Cheryl Moore, Jay Segal, Tom Lawler, and Marshal Hayashi.

Poly Observes Ethnic Holidays and Occasions

Poly commemorated important holidays of its multi-ethnic students. In February, the campus observed Black History Week. Held from February 12 through 16, the Week featured many activities. Carl White and Monica Burton were elected Mr. and Ms. Black. Some 10 girls of Afro-American heritage participated in a fashion show featuring African dress. A dinner, with the best in "Soul Food" was held in 707. Activities were capped off by the performance Black Rennaissance, a play by Randee Eddins. Chicano students shared their cultural heritage with the Poly family in their traditional 5 de Mayo Week, or, Semana de la Raza. The Week featured outside speakers, a food sale, an art show and an assembly with Poly students participating.

Student Govt. Strives For Campus Credibility

One of the main issues of this year's Student Government class was the question raised by many of the students, "Is there a need for commission, and does it really represent the student body?" To answer this question, ASB President Toni Forde started a campaign to establish better communication between student government and the students. To do this: 1) A new appointive office was created called "communications." The function of this office was to visit different classes to inform students of what was happening in student government and in commission meetings; 2) classes were permitted to sit in on actual commission meetings; 3) the minutes and important issues covered in commission meetings were posted on campus. Other important issues covered in commission meetings were the expansion of the exchange program, in which students from all 5 high schools could participate where before it was exclusively Poly and Lakewood. The voting system was also an important item, and many changes were made. No registration was needed to vote. One voted by his identification card which was punched when a person voted. Campaign assemblies were abolished. Instead, candidates were at different points around campus to talk to those students who were interested.

Anthony Haney Leads To Impressive Year

Forensics did well this year. At the time the yearbook went to press the team had competed in eight tournaments, winning 20 certificates and three trophies. Anthony Haney and Sharon Waranius proved to be outstanding speakers. At a Lions Club contest Anthony Haney won a first place and at an Optimists Club contest Kevin Robbins won a second place. The team expects to compete in at least two more tournaments.

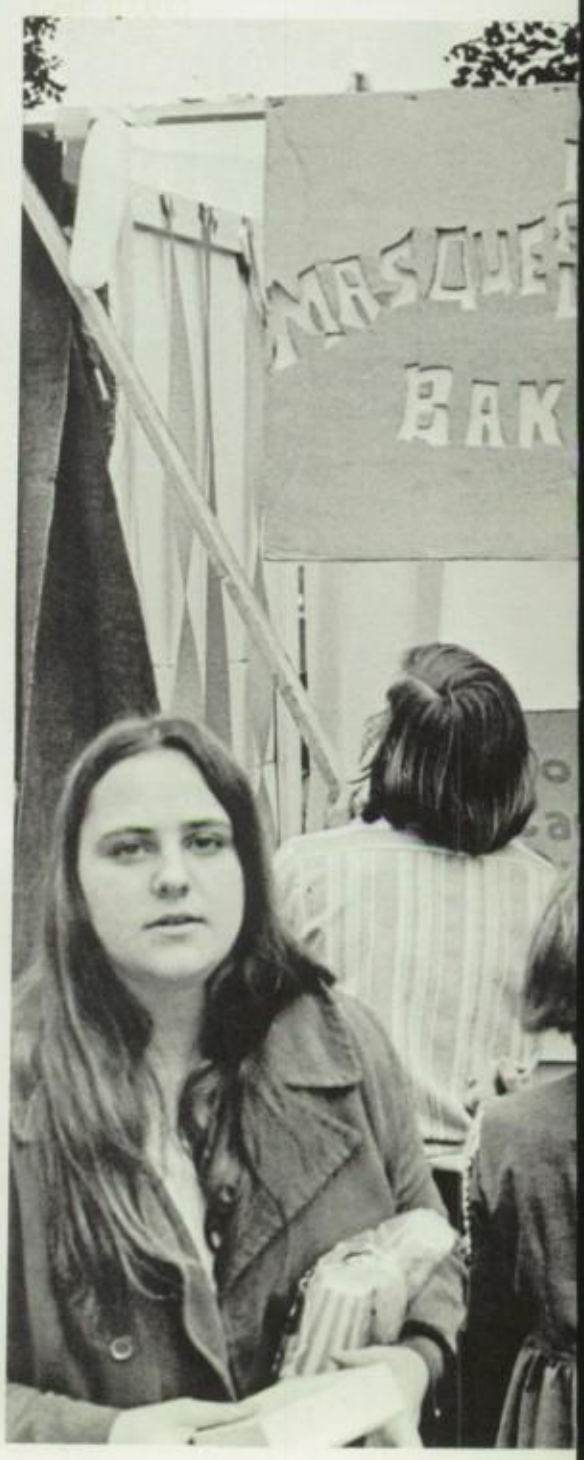
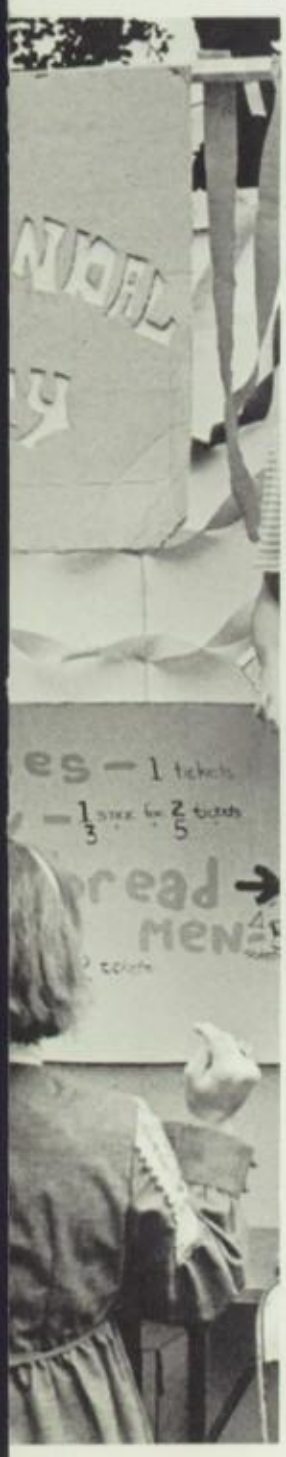
Key Club

One of the major clubs on campus is Key Club. The officers were Pres., Jay Siegel, vice-president, Larry French, treasurer, John Campbell. During Key Club Week, it sponsored a "Beat Westminster Contest," to incite the student body's spirit to victory. The year's activities included distributing banks for the March of Dimes and spending the day with retarded children in a "joint" with Portia.

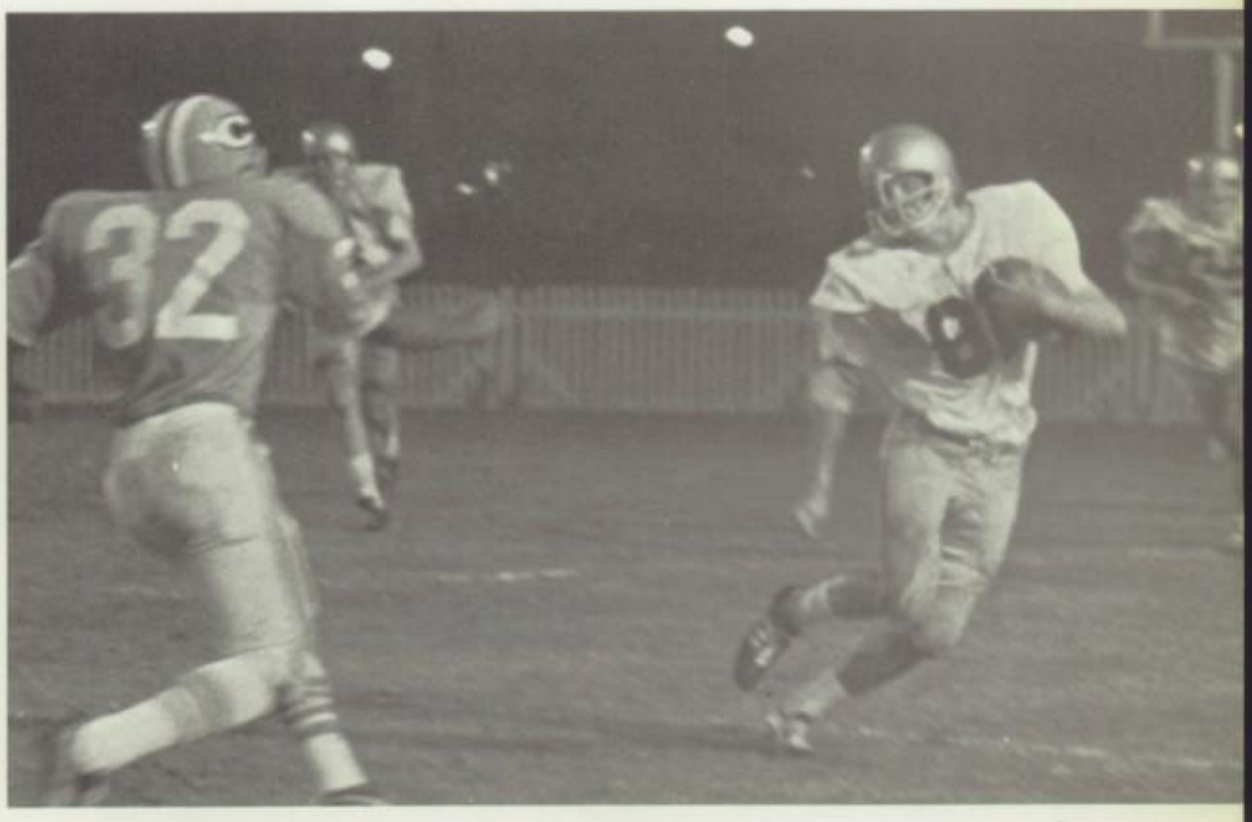
Asian Students

Asian American Students Club unites students who are interested in the culture of Asia. The president was Denise Matsushita, the vice president, Kenya Narita, the secretary is Dorothy Saka. Activities included a trip to Cal State and a booth at homecoming.

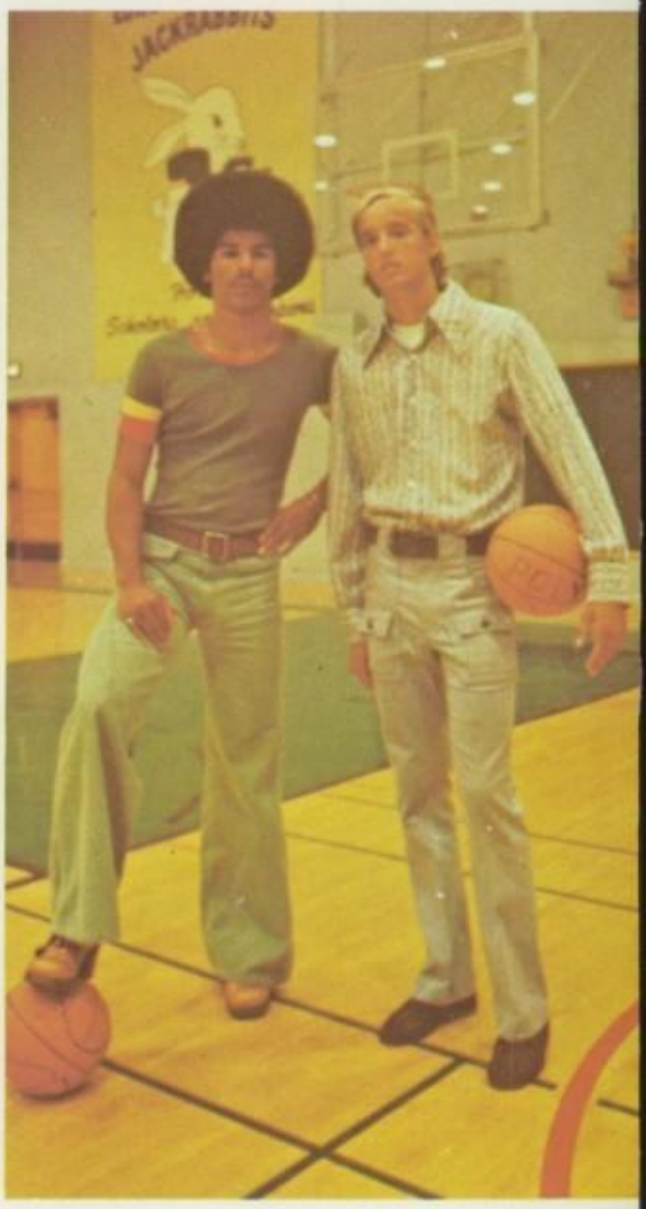


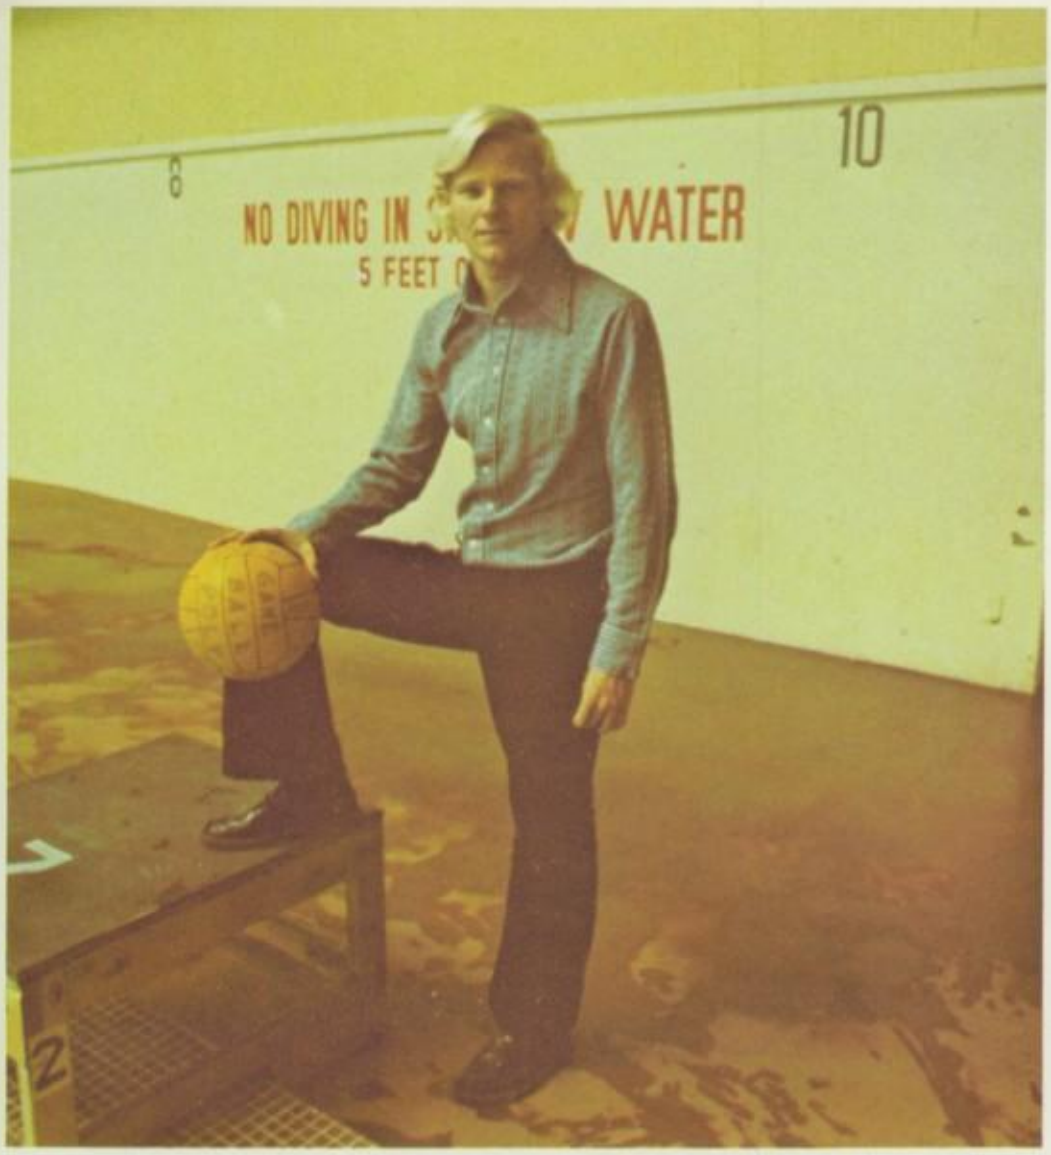


Clubs Provided The Action At Homecoming



SPORTS





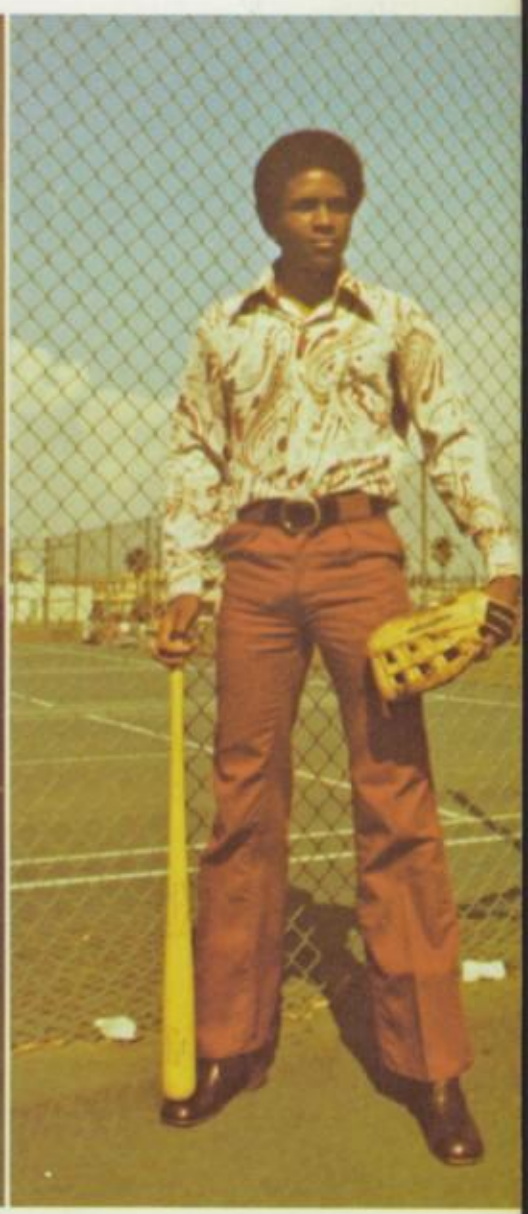
Poly:
Home Of Natty "Jocks"

We saw them in uniform. We saw them and cheered them in action. Let's view them now as individuals — the men of Poly.

Tradition is one name of our game. Thirty-three CIF Championships . . . nineteen state championships in the combined sports. The past belonged to the Willie Browns, the Gene Washingtons, the Mack Calvins.

And the present? It belongs to James Warren and his track cohorts; Tyrone Spears and Dale Dillon in basketball and "The rags to riches" football team led by Anthony Hill. It belonged to Stan Bork, aquatics; James Taylor, gymnastics; Charles MacDonald, baseball; Bill Koran, tennis; Rick Perry, wrestling.

No, we didn't win 'em all; but we were all involved in the '72-'73 "Year of the Rabbit." Our athletes performed beautifully in action and lithely, as can be expected of the best dressed "jocks" in town.



Varsity Cross Country Captures Moore Title

To endure the pain and the fatigue and then to win is the ultimate victory in Cross Country. Poly's runners were both tough and victorious. They swept through all the dual meets undefeated, and then took the top four places in Moore League finals to become only the third team in Poly's history to win the Moore League Crown.

Winning every race with apparent ease, junior, Gary Brodie led the team to its success. Always close behind, senior Jeff Haines finished second in the finals. Third and fourth belonged to juniors Jaime Nunez and Perry Maloney who exhibited potential excellence in years to come.

Poly Go! Go! Go!
Poly Went, Went!

The rabbits came back in 1972. The lean, dry years — eight to be exact — ended on the cold rainy night of November 17 at Vet's Stadium when tight end, Bruce Carey, snagged a pass from mighty Anthony Hill in the end zone.

That was a very heavy touch down. It broke Millikan's back. It cinched the Moore League Championship tie with Lakewood. The crowd went wild, "CEE-EYE-EFF! CEE-EYE-EFF!" Long Beach had kept "the faith."

What happened? How did it happen? The football team of 1972 was fast, strong and above all explosive. It could go for six from any corner of the field; and that's how most of its scoring went — ZAP!! 30, 40, 50 yards. Troy Winslow's backs and ends had speed to burn, and that's exactly what they did to the foes' defensive units — burned 'em good. And the defense could at times be little less than awesome when the chips were down. Poly's 7-2 regular season record was the best in the Moore League.

The football team of 1972 was also prone to make mistakes. What can you say about a team that gives up 100 yards in penalties — and wins? What can you say about the two losses, those nights when the rabbits peered out of the tunnel at Vets Stadium and said to Blair and Compton, "I don't wanna come back." You might say it was a team that gave you heart attacks and ecstacy in equal portions.

If it was not a perfect season on the record books, the climate was just fine for settling old scores. Homecoming! "Big Red was dead!" 20-12, the first win in eight years. And there was no joy at Wilson the night of their homecoming, for the "Bruin was ruined", 33-15, the first time in nine years.

Some people say there are no perfect moments. That may be true. But that moment at the end of the Millikan game when grimy players stood at the edge of the field smiling big, wide mud-splattered smiles, raising their hands in the victory sign and the band struck up "Loyalty" and people in the stands and the people in the field were one, it seemed that that's about as perfect as moments ever get.

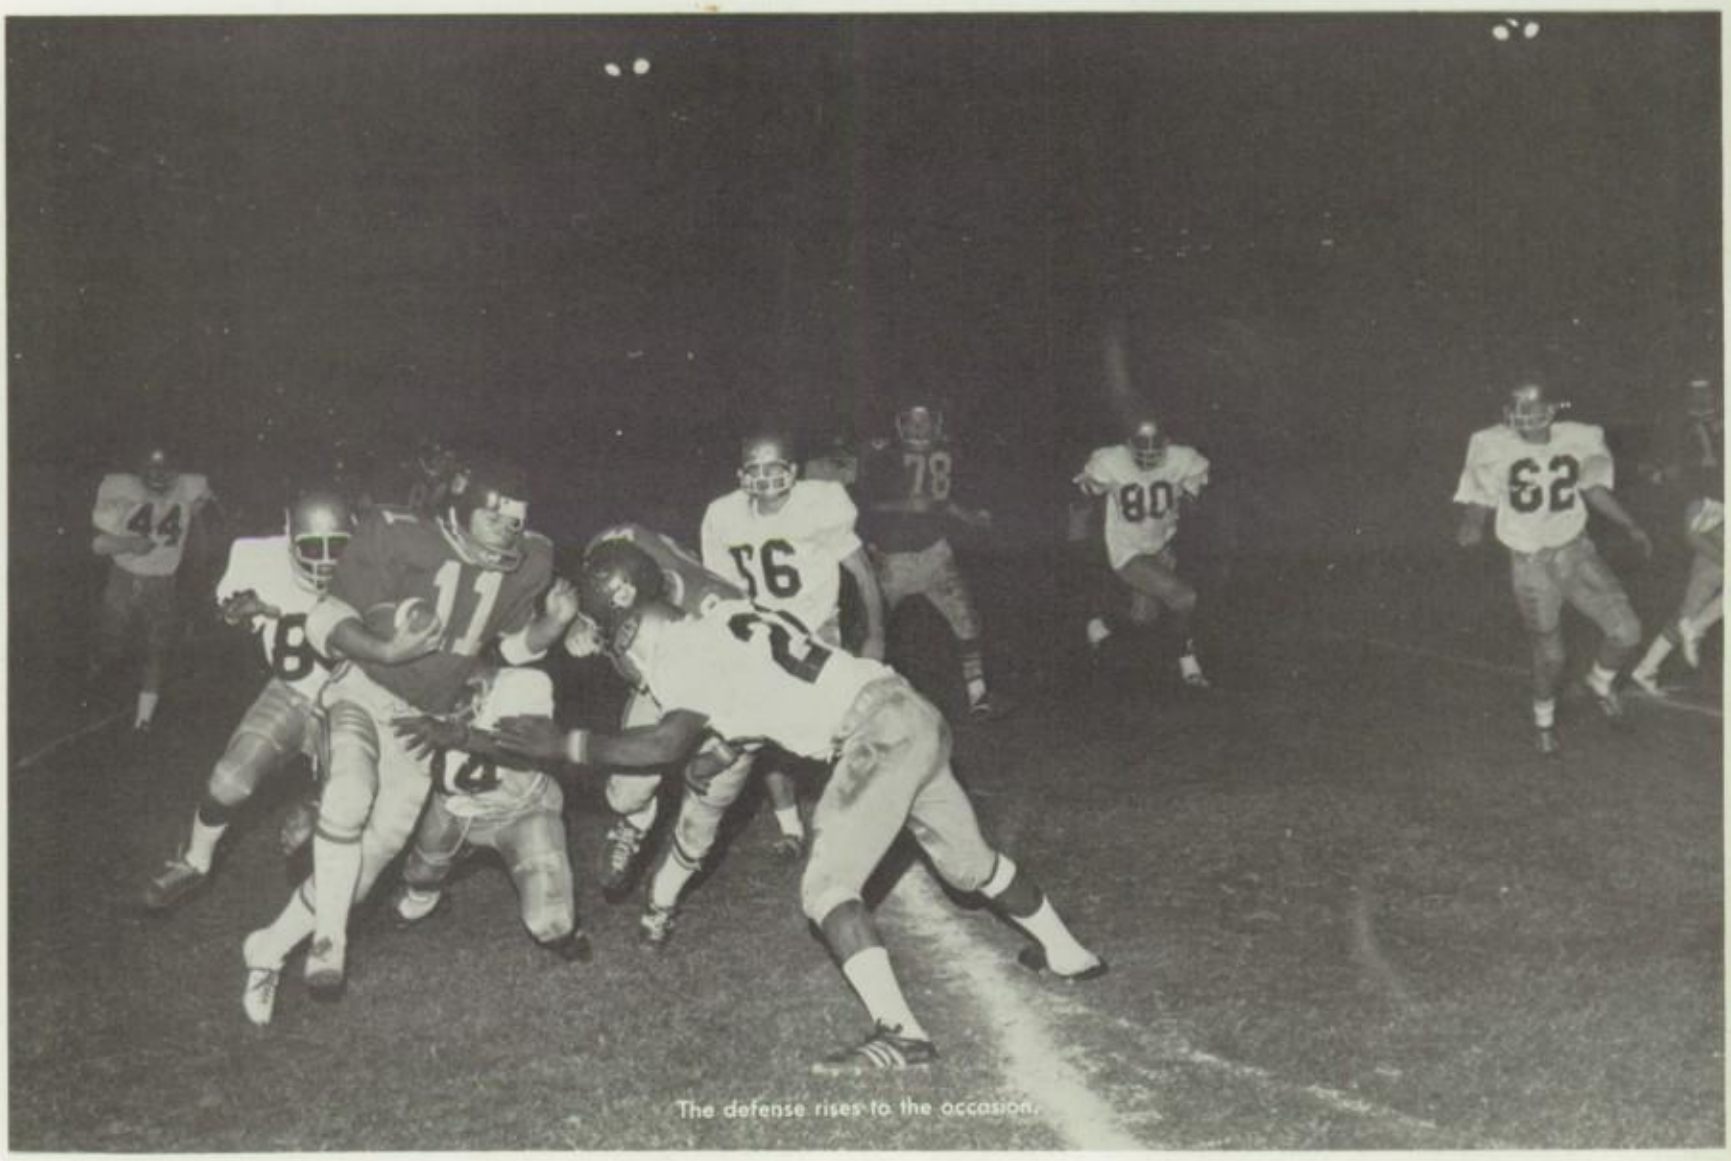
Matsui vs. Wilson

Hares got "their's."



The defense rises to the occasion.

Hill Leads Stars To Team Victory Title

It was easy to see why Poly tied for the Moore League title. A quick glance at the individual statistics was enough.

On offense Anthony Hill, the elusive quarterback, stood alone in accomplishment and accolades. Hill connected 59% of his passes for over 1000 yards and 15 touchdowns, while rushing for 472 yards in regular season play. Tailback Randy "Freight Train" Woodard averaged 5.7 yards a carry to lead the league in rushing. Complementing the efforts of Hill and Woodard, was an impressive array of receivers. Track star, Roy Haggarty, ran six of his 11 catches in for scores while tight end, Bruce Carey, was Hill's favorite target with 24 receptions.

Making the offense go was the thankless job of the linemen. This brutal task was led by All-league tackle, Tim Hamade, guards Anthony Ortega and Bob Montana, center Dave Hinton.

Although the defense gave up a lot of yardage, opponents found it difficult to score. When in trouble, the defense came up for the "big play." Safety, Danny Costales' 105 yard interception runback against Wilson will long be remembered. Other stellar efforts came from Leroy Giles, David Cole, Elvie Howard, Brian Hill, Jeff Clayton and Warren Ernshaw.

Jayvees Were Down

With many juniors moving to the varsity, the ranks of the J.V.'s were thin. After a mediocre preseason run, the team entered a disastrous turn of events in Moore League — losing all except one.

There were some individual stars, however. Wide receiver, Rodney King, led the team in scoring, and running back, Ron Ono, carried the ball for consistent gains.

Water Polo Flounders In Disappointing Year

WATER POLO — L.-R: P. Posson, D. Custer, M. Ouimette, D. Johnson, L. Watts, A. Bell, D. O'toole, S. Bork, B. McHenry, R. Dewalt, K. King.

The Poly water polo team had a very disappointing season. Even with some outstanding players as, Mark Ouimette, Dave Johnson, and Stan Bork, it did not win one Moore League game where competition is extremely tough.

Victories, Excitement Mark Hares' Season

Sometimes erratic, sometimes frustrating, but always exciting, the Poly Basketball team lasted to the third round of CIF. Their success came from a fast break offense and quick switching defense that throttled their opponents. It was the type of play that could score many points in a hurry, but it also led to frequent mistakes.

Entering Moore League, Poly had won the tough San Bernadino tournament and was rated high in CIF. Their only losses were in overtime to Katella and St. Anthony. Losing the close games became the undoing for Poly's title hopes.

Poly disposed of Compton and Lakewood with Dale Dillon emerging a star. A team whose strength lay in its balance, Poly began to rely on Dillon's scoring punch. The rabbits did not look completely united in their close losses to Wilson. As a result, Poly had to settle for second place.

In CIF, the rabbits pulled their talents together in dumping Huntington Beach. Against Cal Hi, Poly shot poorly but still hung on to win. In the final game of the season, Corona del Mar jumped out to a commanding lead after three quarters. A valiant effort in the last six minutes brought the rabbits back. It was not enough for the final score showed Poly one point behind. It seemed it couldn't have ended any differently.

Depth, Balance Equal Cage Wins For Rabbits

The Poly Basketball Team was marked by depth and overall balance. Nine players were used regularly by Coach Willard Forester. Guard Dale Dillon, chosen on many All-Tournament teams, led Poly in scoring and publicity. Lester Hogan and Scott Jenkins anchored the front line with their rebounding, while Anthony Hill and Mark Lovelace led the fast break. Reserves Doug Butler, Cartier Reedus and Robert Johnson gave needed punch off the bench.

Injuries Hurt Wrestling In Bid For League

With experience and determination, the Poly Wrestling team had the look of a serious title contender. Injuries, however, affected the team's morale and performance. Close losses to Lakewood and Millikan upset their chances for the Moore League crown.

Individually, there were some outstanding performances. League wrestler of the year, Tim Hamade, went through the season without a loss. Juniors Carl Sternberg and Tony Montoya captured second place in their weight divisions, while Linsey Seki and Harvey Wada took third. Other fine performances were given by Joe Jenson, Mark Moline, Steve Perez and Keith Wilson.

Swim Faces Challenge

The Poly Swim team can look forward to an uphill struggle for respectability in Moore League. With a small team and a new coach, the rabbits are overmatched by many opponents. Seniors Mark Ouimette, Stan Bork, Dave Johnson and Don Kuster are quality swimmers competing in a mediocre year for Poly aquatics. Perhaps next year the "wabbits" will be back.

Ho-Hum . . . Rabbits Sweep Moore League — Again

A perennial power in Moore League, the Poly Track team once again captured all three divisions with astonishing ease. Winning their fifth crown in a row, the rabbits displayed the awesome ability that has become tradition at Burcham Field.

Rival Compton provided an early season test for the young jackrabbits. Poly managed a commanding victory even in losing both relays and failing to place in the 100 yard dash. Balance, depth and a strong distance team were key factors in this auspicious accomplishment. Also in this meet, Jeff Haynes emerged from the shadow of cross country champion Gary Brodie, Haynes made up a thirty yard gap in winning the 880. His time classed him with the best in CIF.

After disposing of Compton, the rabbits swarmed over the rest of their opponents. Quality performances became more common as the athletes headed toward Southern California competition. Ricky Wilder went undefeated in the 120 yard high hurdles. Roy Haggerty finished the league season with five straight victories in the 100 yard dash. Elvie Howard found the smooth stride and the desire that made him an outstanding runner as a sophomore. Shot putter Howard Barbee had better tosses than league rivals as the year ended. The 440 relay team of Cornbread Jenkins, Greg Moore, Haggerty, and Warren has come together to make this year another exicting finish.

Although not strong in preseason, the JV team went through Moore League without a loss. This was done primarily with the one-two combination of Ray Roscoe and Larry Flewellen in the sprints. Never failing to take the first two places, Roscoe and Flewellen provided the lift to carry the rest of the team to victory. Ron Hill was another important point-getter being a consistent winner in three events. Moore League finals will bring varsity runners Harry Sprowl and James Clark down to make strong bids for individual titles.

The sophomore team captured League despite one close loss to Wilson. Their individual talent could bring them the CIF championship. Sprinters Michael Flippen, Ray Robinson, and Benny Robinson swept nearly every race. Adding long jumper Ray Kelly to the 440 relay the sophomore speedsters have run the fastest time in the state. Performing in the Varsity, high jumper Wayne Neuman and shot putter Mark Madison have also posted top marks.

Baseball Best In Years

Before entering Moore League play this year, Poly's Varsity Baseball team got off to a good start by compiling a 4-3 preseason record. The sound pitching of Alan Rye, Kevin Matoi and Bob Sharon combined with the consistent play of Chuck McDonald and Arthur Ware make this one of the best Poly teams in recent years.

Taylor Leads Gymnasts

The Poly Gymnastics team is small but up and coming in Moore League competition. A high finish will prepare this young team for next year's drive for the title. The team is centered upon James Taylor, whose talents will make him the best all-around gymnast in Long Beach. A truly outstanding athlete, Taylor has the ability to win meets single-handedly. Improving rapidly are juniors Dan Pierro and George McNece, making Poly a threat in the year to come.

Golfers Have Balance

With only two strokes separating the first and sixth man, the Poly Golf team will attack their opposition with superb balance. Hard drivers Tat Sugioka and Dave Simcox will lead their team into the tough Moore League battle. George Talin, Bruce Wallace, Larry French and Kevin Matoi will also be deciding factors in the success of the 1973 golf season.

It's Swingers Swing For Tops In League

Easily the best in Long Beach, the Poly High Tennis team supports one of the most interesting group of athletes. Led by coach, Nick Trutanich, the rabbits are expected to win their second Moore League title in a row.

Number one singles player, Bill Koran, will pace the team as he will seek the individual title. Sophomore Mike Edles, already a highly stylized player, will give Koran a fierce but amiable battle for the much coveted League crown.

Kinya Narita and Ken Takahashi provide strength and depth in doubles. Dennis Easter, a sound player, is equally concerned with his art work as his backhand. The inspiring play of Earnie Polido will make the rabbits a winning team for years to come.

Girls Score Victories

Just as men sports claimed successful season, girls sports also was in the winning columns. In the fall, Tennis tied for first place in all-city, and Football claimed a winning season with more than 50% victory. Stars for the year: Swimming, Debbie Roessler, Phyllis Schoeder; Tennis, Diane Desfor; Badminton, Mary Marx, Jennifer Marx, Deborah Reed; Volleyball, Dora MaGee, Roxane Ishimene; Football, Kay Hagerty, Eleanor Fields; Basketball, Cassandra Stipe, Regina Prather; Track, Cassandra Stipe: Softball, Barbara Herring. Vivian Lemon, retiring after thirty two years at Poly

Message from Vivian

To many people thirty two years seems an incredibly long time to stay in the same school. Still, schools are always in a state of change. A high school, especially, is not the same one year to the next. I have seen so many changes at Poly in my stay here. Many buildings have been built. There have been many CIF wins and championships. Students have involved in many constructive activities. I will always remember with pleasure the friendly, enthusiastic, the fine people I have known here at Poly.

I take the wings and like those habits of old alligators plunge into the eclipsed profile of TRANSITION
riding tide to tide with that lipless smile and enchanting stride
as lemmings who forgot the missteps of their fathers
I leave the chugging dispute for our paths
in dusty aspirations to decide whether to love or smother
